Spiritual Education Programs for April - June 2010

April 27 - June 15

Facilitated by: Rev. Nadene Elizabeth Rogers

The Edinburgh Lectures - SOM 207

from 7:00 - 9:30 pm

Judge Thomas Troward was a major influence in the life and writings of Dr. Ernest Holmes, creator of the Science of Mind Teaching. He had a unique ability to use sequential logic to lead to rational conclusion in support of his spiritual ideas.

We shall learn to better see beyond appearances by virtue of understanding the varying degrees of self-conscious intelligence within the living world of duality.

In these lectures, Troward further covers the concepts of The Law of Growth, Receptivity, the Relationship of the Subjective and Objective Mind, Reciprocal Action of the Universe, Intuition/Healing, the Will and the Relationship between Causes and Conditions.

We shall better understand and accept our relationship to faith, as we let God create the 'How' of our desire and good, patiently, peacefully and expectantly.

May 5 - June 30

Facilitated by: Rev. Nadene Elizabeth Rogers

Will The Real Me Please Stand Up?

from 7:00 - 9:30 pm

In relationships we want to be honored, respected, trusted, understood, at the very least. At the very most we can add to that list, supported and loved. For this to happen we need to ask the question how can I best communicate with others in a way that reveals my truth, my authenticity with compassion, clarity and commitment, so as to practice seeing the Presence of the Divine in all people. How can I communicate in a manner that heals those patterns of belief that keep me separate from the connection I live for with others and the trust in myself. How can I build intimacy, without the fear of being vulnerable and the compromise of my truth.

We will explore the skill of interpersonal communication, the study of which will support you in the practice of active listening, the art of asking questions and the technique of spiritual mind treatment, showing you a healthy and interdependent experience in relationship with life.
